Strategy overview

- The Whitehelm Capital Listed Core Infrastructure Fund provides investors with exposure to a diversified portfolio of global core infrastructure stocks.
- The fund invests in assets that protect the real value of the investment whilst providing predictable cash returns; this is achieved through investing in high quality assets that have clear and measurable cash flows.
- A thorough investment process ensures that each stock is assessed against the same core infrastructure criteria used to assess infrastructure in private markets:
 - Stable operational cash flows
 - Inflation linkage
 - High capital cost, high operating margin
 - Monopoly characteristics
 - Low correlation with economic activity

Investment philosophy

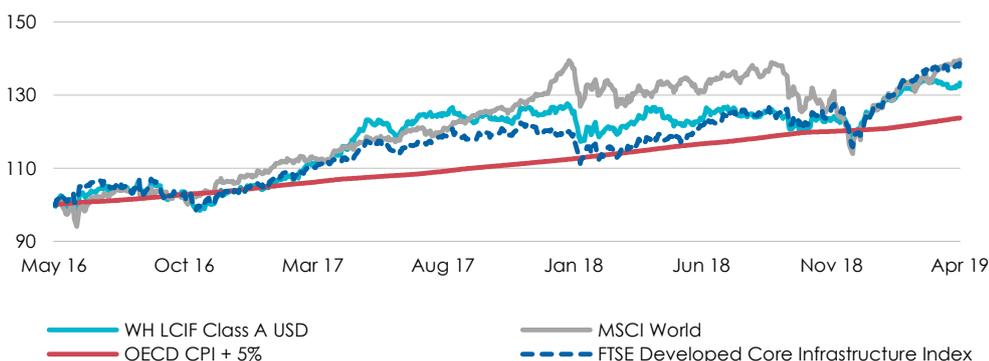

- Whitehelm adopts a strict investment philosophy and approach to listed infrastructure that shapes the way it invests:
 - Only invest in core infrastructure
 - Build diversified portfolios of quality assets
 - Ensure every acquisition has a conservative capital structure and a sustainable cash yield
 - Don't overpay, and be a patient investor
- This investment philosophy has been built on the decades of experience Whitehelm has in investing and managing infrastructure assets.

Manager commentary

The Whitehelm Listed Core Infrastructure Fund (Class A USD Unhedged) returned -0.4%, net-of-fees, in April. The Fund has returned 10.4% p.a. since its inception, compared to the benchmark OECD CPI +5% p.a. return of 7.4% and the 11.9% p.a. return provided by the FTSE Developed Core Infrastructure Index over the same period.

Global equities continued to rise in April, with the MSCI World index up 3.4%. The global equities return was again led by the US, driven by strong showings from financials and technology stocks. Since the start of the year the S&P 500 and Nasdaq Composite indices have been on a tear, and have now risen by 18% and 22%, respectively. Commodity prices have also been on a strong rally, with Brent Crude and WTI gaining 35.3% and 40.7%. In this environment, it's not surprising that the more GDP and trade sensitive US stocks outperformed defensive stocks, with the S&P 500 industrial index rising 4.0% in the month, while the S&P 500 utilities index returned 0.9%. US rail stocks posted solid gains as the S&P 500 Rail index returned 6.7%.

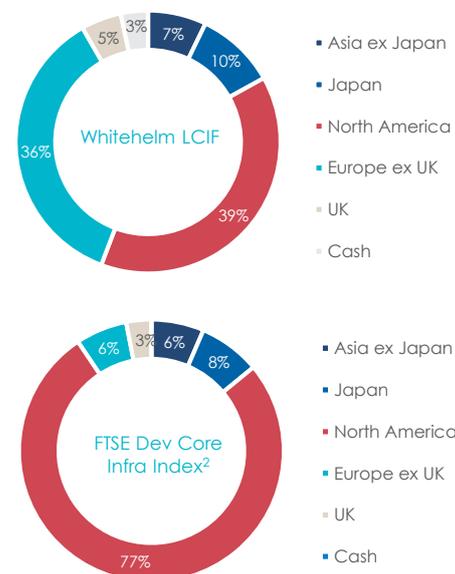

Investor sentiment was lifted by solid US economic data for the first quarter, and strong first quarter corporate earnings. The Bureau of Economic Analysis reported that US GDP increased by 3.2% in the first quarter of 2019. This represents the best first quarter GDP growth in four years. The ISM's manufacturing index increased to 55.3% in March, from 54.2% in February. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 196,000 were created in March, exceeding expectations. However, the data now appears to be softening with manufacturing PMI slipping back to 52.8 for April, and inflation coming in lower than expected.

European equity markets also had solid returns in April, with the Euro Stoxx 600 up 3.2%. The month's theme of cyclicals outperforming defensives was even more pronounced in Europe than the US, with the Euro Stoxx 600 industrial index up 7.3%, and the Euro Stoxx 600 utilities index down 0.3%. The German DAX had a strong month, returning 7.1%. This contrasted with soft economic data from the German government, which halved its 2019 GDP forecast to 0.5%, from 1.0%. All other major individual country indices also provided positive returns: Italy (+3.3%), France (+4.9%), UK (+2.3%) and Spain (+3.6%). The European Central Bank maintained its dovish stance, leaving interest rates on hold at its April meeting. The immediate uncertainty around Brexit and the risk of a hard exit has somewhat diminished, following the extension of the Brexit deadline to 31 October 2019.

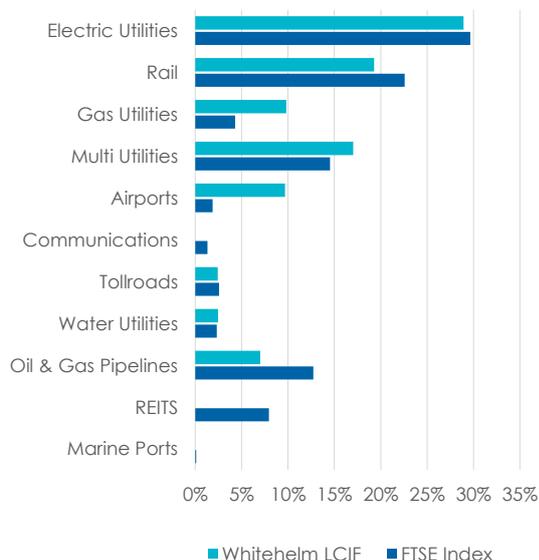

North American Railroads were the fund's best performers over April, returning 6.7% on average, in line with the S&P 500 Rail index return. Norfolk Southern (+9.2%) and Canadian Pacific Railway (+8.7%) had a particularly strong month. Frankfurt Airport returned 8.9% over the month, and Spanish airport stock AENA also had solid gains (+7.5%), after reporting strong earnings for the first quarter of 2019.

The fund's return in April was weakened by European and Asian utilities. Italian multi utility, A2A, was the fund's largest detractor over the month, returning -8.4%. Japanese gas utilities Osaka Gas Co (-6.6%) and Tokyo Gas Co (-6.2%) were also down. Other detractors included Italian electric utility Terna (-5.5%), Italian toll road stock SIAS (-5.1%) and Zurich Airport (-6.0%). The fund's returns have not matched the FTSE Developed Core Infrastructure Index so far in 2019, due to the strong commodity price driven rally, and the outperformance of the US infrastructure relative to European infrastructure. The fund has a lower exposure to volatile commodity prices, and more even spread of exposures across developed markets, compared with the FTSE Developed Core Infrastructure Index with a 76% weight to North America.
